The Collected Clinical Works of Alfred Adler, Volume 12 - The General System of Individual Psychology: Overview and Summary of Classical Adlerian Theory & Current Practice By Henry Stein

Volume 12, "The General System of Individual Psychology" is an unpublished manuscript by Alfred Adler. The thirteen undated lectures, identified as "chapters," form a complete series that Adler presented in English, possibly in New York City. Adler's terminology and style suggests that the lectures were given later in his career, and represent a summary of his matured theory of the personality, as well as principles of prevention and treatment. In the homestretch of The Collected Works, this distillation serves as a gathering point for the abundant diversity of topics Adler covered from 1898 to 1937.
